About Jackie Sirgo, Middle School and High School Placement Counselor:

Ms. Sirgo earned her B.A. in Philosophy from the State University of New York at Buffalo State College and her M.A. in Higher Post-secondary Education from Teachers College, Columbia University. For the past three years, she served as the School Placement Coordinator for the School at Columbia University, a private K-8 school on Manhattan's Upper West Side. Prior to her work at The School, Ms. Sirgo spent four years as an Early Intervention Initiative Coordinator and three years as an Upward Bound Counselor to help low-income and first-generation college-bound middle and high school students gain access to higher education through academic enrichment and college readiness programming. Ms. Sirgo has also worked for the Settlement College Readiness Program at Union Settlement. During her tenure at The School at Columbia, she successfully placed graduates in high schools ranging from Horace Mann to Bard Early College High School. She is well informed about the academic strengths and social interests of over 250 schools in the Tri State Area, and she is able to recognize students' academic and social needs and make recommendations for their continuing education.
